Time silently and imperceptibly steals away, with the passing years, many of the impressions formed at college. It slowly erodes the firm foundation of college remembrances, until only a few old friendships remain as a monument to the associations which once filled entire lives. Knowledge acquired in the classroom can be recalled in later years from various sources, but the spirit, faith, and achievement, which are experienced at college are not perpetuated by notes on text books.

The Class of 1924 offers this edition of the Cauldron with the sincere hope that it will help keep fresh and green the old associations, and that it will serve to record in a permanent way for the class, the alumni, and friends of the college, the story of the past years.

To
Alfred John Ferretti

With deep appreciation for his increasing loyalty as our friend and adviser, we dedicate this book.

Alfred John Ferretti

Alfred John Ferretti, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, Northeastern University, was born in Lynn, Massachusetts, February 29, 1896. In his early life he attended the Cobbett Grammar School, and upon graduating, he entered the Lynn Classical High School, enrolling in the Scientific Course. After receiving his diploma, he entered Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1913, in the Mechanical Engineering Course. Here, he received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering in 1917.

The year following graduation he took up the duties of instructor in Drawing and Mechanism at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1918 and 1919, he was instructor in Merchant Marine Engineering Drawing. During this period he was in the service of the United States Government. His work included a secret design for United States engineers under Professor Miller of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. From 1918 to 1920, he was instructor in Machine Design in Franklin Union.

In October, 1918, he took up his duties at Northeastern University as an instructor in Mechanical Engineering. Since then he has received a promotion to assistant professorship in this branch.

Through these six years on the faculty of Northeastern University he has held the well deserved respect and friendship of the students of the school. His work has been greatly appreciated. His ever ready desire to assist students and to encourage them in their work has won for him a high place in the estimate of those who were fortunate enough to come under his supervision. This graduating class, as well as past and future graduating classes, will always hold dear the memory of Professor Ferretti as an enthusiastic worker for Northeastern University.

FRANK PALMER SPEARE, M.H., LL.B.

Frank Palmer Speare, President of Northeastern University, was educated in the Boston Public Schools, Chauncy Hall School, Bridgewater State Normal School and Harvard University. Upon graduation, he entered High School principalship. Later, in 1895, he was appointed Director of Education for the Boston Young Men's Christian Association, which position he held until the department was incorporated as Northeastern College in 1916, when he was elected president. He established the Co-Operative Engineering School in 1909.

He is a member of numerous important educational and fraternal organizations.

One of the many things which will help us to remember "Bill" is that bass voice at mass meetings—"wait a minute." However, after his election as chairman of the student council he succeeded in having a trio of cheer leaders elected, thus relieving him of that duty.

"Al" is the class humorist and syncopator. Even in times of dire sorrow and adversity "Al" bursts out with a wise crack or a jazzy tune. There is a rumor that he is going to play his "uke" in Paul Whiteman's orchestra. His repeated "Just explain that" is quite familiar in class room. When writing up "prelims" you can get all the information you want from him (concerning the latest dance steps).

"Happy-go-lucky" is the best way to describe "Chick." He has not been bothered much by school work, and so has had lots of time for the radio, the piano, and the girl. "Art" is sort of a mysterious chap whose habits we know very little about, but he has been seen traveling around the city evenings under a four cylinder derby, pushing a twin-six cigar. You may draw your own conclusions from that. It is reported that he has made several trips to Framingham in his Ford Coupe with Tommy. We doubt if it is just to do Tommy a favor.

Rather shy, maybe, but there at the finish. Here is a digger that will stick to a thing until every last chance known has been exhausted. This "stick-to-it" trait of this bird is what will make people hear him, although he makes very little noise otherwise. Known to us all as "Brownie," he smiles two-thirds of the time, and it spreads like a radio wave. As a public speaker, Brownie is not what you would call an orator, but if he has anything to say, there is no doubt left in your mind what he was talking about by the time he has finished.

The College Year

"One Thousand Men Enrolled! Engineering School Registration Breaks All Previous Records!" Such was the news proclaimed in number one, volume four, of the Northeastern Tech during the opening week of school in September, 1923. This large registration marked a ten percent increase in the size of the student body and included 425 Freshmen. At the first social assembly of the year, the Freshman Reception, our division A yearlings were greeted and welcomed into college life. An outline of the student activities offered by the Engineering School and the method of selecting men for leadership in undergraduate life was given the rookies by faculty department heads and student leaders.

THE RUSH

In the first test of strength between members of the lower classes, which took place in the Fenway soon after the Freshman Reception, the Sophomores scored a clean cut win, 240 to 185. The annual outdoor rush proved to be one of the most eventful of any ever staged by Northeastern Engineers. E. W. Sandstrom, stalwart leader of the Fresh, was captured by the Sophomore Class and spirited away from the environs of Huntington Avenue. However, he escaped the clutches of his upperclass guardians in time to lead his classmates at the rush. The side of battle turned to the Sophomore colors when they won both tugs of war and pulled their rivals through the cool waters of Muddy River twice in succession. By winning the rush the upholders of Sagitta Society honor won the right to partial jurisdiction over the class of '27 A which they soon put into effect by issuing a tabulation of rules and regulations governing the Fresh.

HALFWAY THROUGH

The Junior class began its activities of the year by instituting a new event in the social register. A "Half Way Through Banquet," celebrating the commencement of the second half of the class's college career was held at the Hotel Hemenway. The affair was a stirring success, typical of the rollicking fellowship of college life and a splendid milestone in the history of the class of 1925.

SOPH SMOKER

Shortly afterward our Sophomores, glorying in their triumph over the Freshmen in the annual rush, staged a smoker at which they were entertained by captured yearlings. A friendly exchange of battle manoeuvres between the two classes made the occasion a memorable one.

JUNIOR DANCE

The first dance of the season was held under the auspices of the Juniors and took place on Friday, November 16th, at the Music Box. Morey Pearl and his jazz masters provided excellent music for the large gathering which turned out for this initial hop of the year. Long will those present remember this good time, marred only by the "coat room rush" which concluded the evening's fun.

an inter-fraternity smoker at which Dean Ell and Professor Spear and Pugsley addressed the 125 men assembled for fellowship and fun in 311-G. The functions and values of fraternity life were stressed by the speaker at this joint gathering of engineering Greeks.

INTERCLASS MEET

In two interclass track meets the Sophomores of both divisions proved their superiority over yearling runners by decisive wins. For the first time in three years the second year men were able to maintain athletic domination over the Fresh. The yearlings suffered another defeat at the hands of the Seniors in the interclass baseball series which took place during the Fall sessions. The work of the Brooks brothers as a battery for the Seniors was largely contributory towards the victory for the class of 1924.

MID-WINTER ENTERTAINMENT

A mid-winter entertainment, given by the combined Glee and Dramatic Clubs in Bates Hall, proved to be a big drawing card. "The Boob" and "The Crimson Cocoonut" were presented by our engineer actors, while the Glee Club, led by Roger Oakman, '24, provided excellent choral music. Other activities, including a Senior smoker, and Sophomore hop, went to make the winter a notable one socially. The Seniors made merry on a sleigh ride through Arlington one snowy night. With the advent of the division B yearlings to college, another Freshman-Sophomore rush took place, the Johnson Memorial Gym being the scene of action. The feature of the rush, in which the first year men overwhelmed their upperclass opponents, was the innovation of a cheering contest. The decision of the judges in favor of the Fresh in this event and the winning of the pushball contest by the class of 1927 cinched the tilt for the yearlings.

JUNIOR PROMENADE

Junior Week brought with it the annual Junior Prom, held this year at Hotel Somerset in the Louis XIV Ball Room. Morev Pearl and his top notch orchestra officiated as the musicians of the evening and a gala crowd of 150 couples glided to and fro on the beautiful Somerse' Ball Room floor until the early hours of the morning. Attractive leather writing cases were presented the ladies as souvenirs, while the men received leather letter cases.

"LISTENING IN"

On the night following the Prom, Jordan Hall was packed to the limit with Northeastern Engineers and their friends assembled to witness the big musical comedy "Listening In." Heralded as the best and biggest theatrical ever attempted by the Engineering School, "Listening In" lived up to its forecasted excellence and goes down in this history as a corking good show.

CANES

Before the college looms the closing events of the year: Senior week and Commencement. That the time of closing is near at hand is evidenced by the presence of black canes with the numerals "'24" carved in red upon them. Seniors carry them to distinguish themselves from the undergraduate body.

The Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club has won its spurs during the past six months. In Cambridge and Reading, "J. Caesar," first presented at the Spring Concert last year, was successfully given to enthusiastic audiences.

In conjunction with the Glee Club, the embryo dramatists offered two one-act plays, "The Crimson Cocanut," and "The Boob."

The crowning achievement was the presentation of "Listening In." The Dramatic Club co-operated with the Musical Clubs in this first production of a musical comedy at Northeastern Engineering School.

NORTHEASTERN BAND

Under the popular leader, Sherman O. Maxwell, the band has again reached its usual efficiency. Twice the band has entertained at the Boston Society of Civil Engineers' students' meetings. Their performance, along with the wrestling team at the Edison Club, was a splendid success. Only at mass meetings has the student body had occasion to listen to music from the "brass."

Orchestra

The crowning success of the orchestra came at the Musical Comedy. Welded into a perfect unit by its leader, Louis Rabinowitz, this musical group put across the musical hits of the show in great order. Due to the very successful program given by the orchestra at the 1923 Commencement, it has been decided to use this talented combination of over thirty pieces again this year.

GLEE CLUB

A pleasing concert, given by the Glee Club at the Dramatic and Glee Club Show, was the crowning achievement of this organization. Numerous other demands on the services of this group, led by Roger G. Oakman, made rather an active year. This well-drilled corps of two dozen men has surely attained a high place in the estimation of the student body.

The past year has seen what looked like a weak track team turned into the strongest team which ever represented Northeastern. The team was undefeated in the indoor season, which included three dual meets, three relay races, and one freshman relay race. This success may be attributed to the judgment of the coaches in developing a team showing strength in every event, as well as to the spirit and ability of the athletes.

From the point of view of keen competition the relays proved of as much interest as the dual meets. Early in the season the relay team twice defeated the Tufts quartet, and at the B.A.B Games Northeastern was the victor over Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in a one-mile relay.

THE WORCESTER MEET

The first dual meet of the season was a distinct success for the track men, and a surprise even to their supporters. Northeastern won, the final score being 47-21. Surprising strength was shown in the field events, the team taking all three places in both high jump and shot-put. C. C. Brooks established a new record for the shot-put in this meet, when he put the sixteen pound pellet 39 ft. 7 in. H. T. Warren set a new record of 5 ft. 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ in. in the high jump.

THE B. U. CONTEST

The Boston University meet, which was rated the big event of the season, was another great victory for the Red and Black. The final score was 45-32, and C. C. Brooks again broke his record in the shot-put with a heave of 40 ft. 9 in. Captain Parsons established his record of 2 min. 29 sec. for 1000 yards in this meet. It was a great day for the Northeastern rooters.

THE TUFTS AFFAIR

The last meet of the season, against Tufts, was Northeastern's most decisive victory. The Tufts team showed the effects of starting a new team, the Medford college not having had a track team last season. The final score was 64-13, the Northeastern men taking all but one first place. Thus the N. U. Team completed the indoor season with an unblemished record.

ABOUT THE TEAM

C. C. Brooks proved the highest and most consistent point scorer for the indoor season, with a total of 15 1-3 points. As he graduates this year, it is likely that his indoor record of 40 ft. 9 in. in the shot-put will stand for some time. Captain Bill Parsons and Elmer Swanson, the B. A. School sprinter, each had a total of 15 points. Parsons also ran on the winning relay team in two of its races. C. W. Hunt and R. S. Murphy, both freshmen, each piled up a total of 13 points. W. H. Young was a consistent scorer in the high hurdles, and run anchor position on the winning relay team.

UNBEATEN TRACK TEAM

The unbeaten track team is about to open its outdoor season with a prospect of continuing its victorious career. The college has taken great pride in its successes and men are not lacking when candidates are called for by the coaches.

CALL DRON

RETROSPECT

As we take a last glance backward, there is nothing but pride for the achievements of the year. The mistakes have made their impressions and will not be repeated. The successes will be surpassed as those of this year have outdone those of previous years. The college is on the highway leading up. The road ahead lies broad and straight.

Success be your portion in all you attempt, Alma Mater!

1924 BASEBALL SEASON

Coach Bond issued his first call for candidates for the baseball team early in March; about sixty men reported to him at the Commonwealth Armory for indoor practice. They were allowed the use of the Armory two days a week and until the first week in April this was all the practice that was held on account of the poor weather. During this time the Coach had his battery candidates working out every noon-time in the Harvard baseball cage. The Coach has had to build a practically new team and too much should not be expected from them at the start, but there is no doubt that we will have a much better team than last year's.

The Coach is not greatly worried over the pitching department, as he has Richards, the veteran of last year's squad, and from present indications he is going to have a successful season. Lang and Stuckert, both new men this year, are coming along fine, and with the other candidates that are out, the Coach feels satisfied. The receiving end will be well taken care of with Wiener, last year's veteran, Deschamps, the regular catcher for the Salem High team for the past four years, and John Brooks, a senior, who is out this year.

In the in-field there is only one veteran from last year, Capt. Ayles, the star second baseman. C. C. Brooks, the shotputter, will probably hold down the initial sack, third base will be taken care of by either Jones, a utility man last year, or Eldridge, a new comer. Short-stop is a problem to the Coach at present, but there are several good men out and it is sure to be well taken care of.

Watson, the only veteran outfielder from last year will hold down the center garden again, while Flynn, the regular first baseman last year, will probably take care of the right field. There are several men out for the left field position, but Dennis, a Freshman, is the most likely looking prospect.

BASKET BALL

Northeastern's 1923-1924 basketball team lived up to all expectations and measured up to past performances, for, even though the scores were frequently against them they always fought until the last whistle blew.

When the first call for candidates was issued about sixty undergraduates responded, and fifteen of these were finally retained on the squad. Starting with only two letter men from the old team, Coach Bond perfected a team which was able to take the first game from the fast Bridgewater Normal School outfit 38 to 37.

This game like all the others was fast and interesting to watch, and throughout the season the fighting spirit exhibited by the team won the compliments of everyone who saw them play. The loss of Urquhart in the early part of the season was a handicap, for that left the team without a center, but Massachusetts Institute of Technology had a hard battle before they finally emerged the victors, 31 to 26.

The team made a name for itself in New York, holding the best college team in the country, City College of New York, to thirty points. Many stronger teams were defeated by a much larger margin, and the good showing made against them insures Northeastern's basketball team a permanent welcome in New York.

When we consider that some of the strongest teams in the East were met it seems as though the success of the team was almost all that could be desired.

The men winning the Varsity letter were, Captain K. L. Banton '25, A. M. Zak, '25, J. W. Urquhart, '26, J. J. Sylvester, '27, R. C. Bearse, '24, J. R. Janssen, '27, and Manager H. A. Buck, '25.

Our Co-op Students at Edison

Fortunate are the co-op students whose engineering practice periods are spent in the laboratories, generating stations, and executive offices of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston. Talk with an Edison Co-op man and you will find him interested in his job, enthusiastic over his work. Why? Because he has found in his work with this great public utilities company not only a means of earning but also a genuine joy and satisfaction in working under congenial conditions.

Through a splendid organization, The Edison Employees' Club, the company promotes the spirit of fellowship and mutual helpfulness among its workers. The service buildings are a pleasure to work in, roomy and well ventilated. On the grounds of the Massachusetts Avenue buildings are included a baseball field and tennis courts. The company looks out for the physical condition of its employees and offers them these opportunities for outside recreation. A library, bowling alleys and a spacious restaurant are also available for the use of employees.

When a company turns an attentive eye to the welfare of its workers as well as to its business relations it cannot but inspire a spirit of loyalty and co-operation. And so our co-op students find themselves members of an organization where the morale is splendid, where the attitude of mutual co-operation prevails, and where they are encouraged to develop themselves to the greatest possible degree.

The Boston Edison Company fosters a large educational program. Extension courses are offered annually besides the co-operation extended by the company to students from Technology, Harvard and Northeastern. It is with sincere pleasure and no little pride that our co-op students (thirty in number) join hands with the Edison Employees' Club in furthering the company's policy of "Service and Courtesy."

FRANK C. HALL, Manager

THE CORRECT COSTUME

"You sure are dressed up fit to kill today, Mary."

"Sure. Why not? I'm going downtown to take my first lesson in driving an automobile."—Sun Dodger.

BY ABSORPTION

"I danced with a girl all night before I found out her nationality."

"What was it?"

"She was full of Scotch."—Dodo.

HIDEOUS

The Flea: "Now I'll hide on you."

The Pup: "Get out, this is my hide."
—Widow.

THE MODERNIST

"Oh, what a cute little dolly! Does she say 'mama' when you squeeze her?"

"Naw! My dolly's a modern doll! She says 'Oh boy!' when you squeeze her."—Flamingo.

ZOOLOGICALLY SPEAKING

She: "By the way, are you an Elk?"

He: "No, deer; I'm a stag tonight."

—Yale Record

THE SINS OF THE CHILDREN

Johnnie: "Mother, I just seen—"

Mother (reprovingly): "Johnnie! Where's your grammar?"

Johnnie: "I was just trying to tell you. She's down at the barber shop getting her hair bobbed!"—Pelican.

"Wouldn't you like me to teach you to swim?"

"Why, you taught me how last summer. Don't you remember?"

"Yes, that's why I'd like to teach you again." —Froth.

THE WAY OF A MAID WITH A MAN
"Here comes a good-looking fellow, Mazie. What're we doing to-day, flirting or being indignant?"

He: "What is a flirtation?"
She: "Attention without intention."
—Chicago News.

WHOA BOSSY

"Have all the cows been milked?"

"All but the American one."

"What do you mean, the American one?"

"The one that's gone dry."—Passing Show.

A TOAST

May you live as long as you want to—and want to as long as you live!

She: "Could you go over that dam without hurting yourself?"

He: "I d'no; why?"

She: "Fish do."—Sun Dial.

PRETTY TOUGH

Cannibal Woman: "Have you seen anything of my husband?"

Cannibal Chief: "Not since dinner."
—Juggler.

"Les talks in his sleep."

"Thasso?"

"Yeah. He recited in class to-day."
—Notre Dame Juggler.

RISQUE JOKE

As the tooth paste said to the tooth brush: "Pinch me, kid, and I'll meet you outside the tube."
—Lord Jeff.

She: "I believe a man should give his wife plenty of rope."

He: "That's what I did with mine—and she skipped!"
—Yale Record.

PROBABLY DEAD NOW

Helen: "I hear Farnham likes only brunettes."

Gertie: "So they say. I'm dyeing to meet him."

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT—OF SENIORS!

During a most exciting game of Bid Whist in the Student Activities' room Stotz needlessly raised his partner's bid to five. They lost and went five in the hole. Freeman, his partner, said Stotz had done just the right thing and that he himself had been the cause of their defeat by not being able to properly support Stotz' plays!!!

"Joe," in Calculus explained that one divided by zero is infinity. Banwell adds that two divided by one is affinity.

Lovely night
Crescent Moon
Situation
Opportune
Ruby Lips
Slight Mustache
Dispositions
Very Rash
Maiden breathes
Whene'er she can
Softly gurgles,
"Naughty Man!"
Hesitates
Whispers then,
"Be a naughty man Again!!!"
—Purple Cow.

S. O.—Who ya takin' to the Prom, Ted?

Corliss—Well. I like Helen's form; Virginia's lips; Dot's eyes; Elaine's hair; Peg's arms; Bee's dancing and Naomi's—Oh, I guess I'll take Naomi.

TACT

The traffic policeman had made a mistake. He had ordered a car to stop when there was really no reason. The driver, a middle-aged woman, was justly indignant.

"Pardon me, madam," said the officer, "but I thought at first you were too young to drive."
—Goblin.

Professor Gramstorff, during one of his Strength of Materials' lectures: "I don't believe you fellows 'bone' half enough. I'd like to know about you, Shepard; when you're up against it, how long do you stay with it?"

USELESS

O pretty miss across the car
My face don't coyly scan,
Or flash that sweet come-hither look,
I'm just a college man.

It's vain to drop your lashes
Or my interest try to fan.
You see—I'd like to but I can't
I'm just a college man.

The thoughts I think, the words I'd say,
The dreams I idly plan—
But I haven't got a bankroll
I'm just a college man.—Jester.

FAIR ENOUGH

'Tis said that Pinkul once played golf with Moses on High.

Moses: "This is a deuce of a fix!
How am I to get out of here?"

Pinkul: "Now, none of your damn miracles—play straight golf."

JOHNNY, WHAT DID YOU MEAN!

John Russell (to his dancing partner):
"So you go to college, too, do you?"

She: "Oh, but I'm not that kind of a girl."

Johnny: "But—But Jimmy said you were—"

She (with a look of consternation):
"Were WHAT!"

Johnny: "Why—a B. U. Co-ed."

She: "Oh."
